NIFTY HANDOVER- FROM BULLS TO BEARS

Just as we predicted in our earlier report, after a long wait of four months, Nifty finally gave a breakout in March. Based on the detailed study and calculations following our unique practice of Time Theory, we have been able to forecast consistently accurate predictions with exact detailing; by providing the exact time range of the occurrence.

We have once again proven beyond doubt that we have the capability to indicate precise market trends with precise timelines much in advance and with almost 100% accuracy.

Our recent prediction was unique and no indications derived from technical or fundamental analysis suggested a definite breakout in March. We thank our subscribers for following our trends and taking appropriate and timely decisions based on our recommendations.

TIME THEORY OUTLOOK FOR THE MONTH OF APRIL 2019

This month is extremely critical as Nifty will rest its bullish streak and end with a trend. There will be a crazy drive for Nifty. The month of April will be extremely unique as the market will witness a different pattern of market trend. This could, in turn, lead to some level of confusion for the market participants, hence we advise them to stay on guard and extremely cautious.

The bears will start tightening the grip, which in turn, will lead to market volatility as the bulls will be equally adamant and will not want to leave the floor.

The first week of April will continue to be the week of the bulls as they will have a heavy grip on the market and will try to inch the market upwards. But the factor of volatility will be extremely high so market participants should stay cautious.

TIME THEORY OUTLOOK FOR THE MONTH OF – APRIL - 2019

In the second week, India will start with its general election. Voting and high levels of uncertainty will lead to high volatility and subsequently may witness some big players exit in the long position. It will be a very tough week and bears will rise to take on active roles, which will pull the Nifty down to critical levels.

The third week will be the resting period and will offer some relief from the profit booking for Nifty. From the last week of April, Nifty will embark on its journey of setting a bearish trend.

TIME THEORY OUTLOOK FOR THE MONTH OF APRIL 2019

Expiry

Expiry will be extremely volatile. Nifty may give the gap up opening and will have a highly volatile journey with trends being created on both sides.

Expert Recommendations

We advise our subscribers to exit all long positions until the second week of April and create short positions at the end of the month.
