Nifty will have a range bound and will experience a sluggish trading pattern this month. Nifty will manage to find some level of stability and will trade in a range. Selling at the higher side of the range and buying at the lower side of the range is recommended.

Towards the end of the month, there is a possibility that the range will narrow down and Nifty before expiry may close on the higher side of the range. The market will lack motivation and will look to events and other important happenings to find its direction. Basically, it is going to be a neutral market trend with no clear indicated direction.

On the international front, voting for Brexit is scheduled in this month. Although the planetary position on the day of the event seems to be normal and encouraging, the outcome of this important event will play a role in boosting the sentiment of the market.

Expiry

The Astro cycle indicates that expiry could be positive and the market could have short covering at the day of expiry.

Expert Recommendations

The charts do not indicate a very positive and encouraging trend for this month. However, traders can take advantage of the range bound opportunity and sell at the top of the range and buy at bottom of the range.

As towards the end of the month, the range will get narrow, it is recommended to take a trade for a narrow range.
