Nifty To Scale New Heights - Market To Witness The Much Awaited Breakout And A New Bull Run Journey

November Performance Outlook

Our predictions for the month of November 2019 were once again spot on. Our monthly report for November 2019 clearly indicated that after the uptrend which will continue till 08 November, levels will draw a halt and may not give any further breakout.

8, November saw Nifty reach a level of 12034, after which it traded in an extremely tight range bound trend for the remainder of the month.

We also forecasted in our report that currency will depreciate further in November. Currency started its journey from the levels of 71.10 on 1 November and it depreciated to the levels of 72.31 against USD.

Our Astro charts also indicated a rise in crude prices, and exactly as forecasted, crude prices in November rose from the levels 3861 to 4222.

Time and again, we have proved that our astro predictions using the Time Theory are extremely accurate. We correctly gauge the pulse of the market and foretell the market trends and impact of important events on the investor sentiments with consistent accuracy and precision.

Astro Outlook For The Month - December 2019

The stage is set for the bulls to take charge and embark on a journey to reach new highs.

It is going to be cheer time for market participants, especially Bulls, as the month of December will welcome the much-awaited breakout that will then lead into the commencement of a long journey of Bull run. This is going to be a remarkable journey as there are strong indications that Nifty will record new all-time highs and create a new benchmark in the months to follow.

In the first and second week of December, markets will trade range bound and will be around the top level of Nifty i.e.12150 level. Although the trend for the Market will be upward, it will move at a gradual pace. There could be certain crucial geopolitical developments that may take place, which will have a positive bearing on the market sentiments, especially the discussions between China and US. December may prove to be a great month with many positives and this month will most probably bring an end to the rough journey Indian markets have been going through from the last two years.
