STANDARD CONSULTATIONS

Market will be highly volatile – Nifty will be under pressure
Midcaps will find reversal!

Gear up for a market that will witness a highly volatile trend with exerting the pressure on Nifty and creating the bottom for Midcaps.

In our May outlook, we were extremely optimistic about the Banking and Finance stocks. Proving our prediction right, Bank Nifty outperformed the market and almost rallied 1500 points from the April expiry and was up by 7.5% on expiry.

Further as per our last month's outlook, we were bullish on the Nifty and forecasted that the bullish cycle will continue till the end of the month. We expected that a top out of this rally will be created in May and further in the entire trading session of June that top won't be able to break.

The astrocharts for the month of June indicate a highly volatile Market

Outlook for June-2018

Get ready for a volatile journey !

In the month of June, the Astro cycles are extremely complicated and complex. As a result of the planetary energies crashing against each other, there are strong indications that it will not allow Nifty to surpass the levels reached in May. The readings show that Nifty will trade under pressure in entire month of June. Volatility will be the trend of the Month.

The last week of June could be extremely fragile for the market and by the end of the month volatility will increase heavily on intraday levels. This month will witness an extensive fight between the bulls and the bears leading to high volatility in the market. There is also a very high possibility that the market may come once to test the bottom of the range.

My readings convey that 08 June onwards lot of changes in market trend can be witness.

Since the month of January, Midcap Index had given a heavy correction and, in this month, it will bottom out and see the gradual reversal pattern. After the Mid of the month there is a change in planetary cycles which will extend the support to Midcap.

Sector-wise from the second week of the month, we are bullish in the Realty sector and housing finance companies. The FMCG sector can also have a good run.

Some of the special days where we can have some critical developments are 11 June, 27 June.

EXPERT RECOMMENDATIONS

Nifty will stay under pressure and will be highly volatile by the end of the month. It will be extremely tough for the Nifty to find a clear trend and this in turn could lead to very high volatility.

Long term Investor can have good deals in this month considering Midcaps.
