Nifty expected to touch four figures!
Be ready for a roller coaster ride!

Our outlook for February was spot on. We were absolutely bearish and very clear about market fall. Our forecast for January accurately predicted a market crash with the precise date range of 25 - 30 January, where prebudget correction would start. We advised our readers to sell their portfolios and as predicted, nifty crashed around 1000 points!

February has seen the banking sector go through one of its worst nightmares. Nifty closed lower after being dragged by financial sector stocks after the revelation of the fraudulent happenings. In the last two weeks of February, the market entered into the range-bound trading consolidation mode with range being from 10300-10600.

We have advised our readers to stay cautious as the market has entered into a bearish trend for short term.

Outlook for March-2018

Get ready for a roller coaster ride!

In March, we still continue to have a strong bearish view where Nifty will break its bottom and possibly go into four digits. After the shocking Nirav Modi scam making headlines, the PSU banking sector is reeling under tremendous pressure and the pressure will only increase as further details are unraveled in the days to come.

Currently, the banking sector is in the limelight and after mid- month, the Bank Nifty will find support. Come mid-march, some other sectors will get more vulnerable especially, media and entertainment, telecom, publishing, etc. whilst, the banking sector may gain some foothold and stability.

Trading range

As per the Astro charts, there is an indication that it will trade below 10600 and the market will face strong resistance at this level, which in turn, bulls will find difficult to cross. The bottom range in Nifty is expected to touch the 10000 mark or can crack to four figure levels.

200DMA will be the most critical support and level for the Market in the month of March. Correction and consolidation will be the highest in march.

Some of the critical bearish dates are 06 March and 20 March, while 19 March will be a good bullish date.

My Astro charts indicate, that there could be a series of events that will occur, which will negatively impact the growth story. But will also make a dent in the Indian growth story and will impact global investors thereby, giving trigger to bears.

The charts further suggest that geopolitical pressure could be one of the reasons for this fall and indicates that this time around it could be from our neighboring countries which will exert further pressure on the markets.

In the month of March market will remain under the correction and consolidation phase, where it will touch the critical levels. “As far as Investors are concerned, good buying opportunity will arise probably in this month where they should indulge in Value-Buying.”
