BEARS IN CHARGE NIFTY TO TAKE THE PLUNGE

Nifty gave a brilliant run in the month of April. As accurately predicted in our newsletter for March, the bull run commenced from the second week of March for Nifty along with Midcaps, who after a long hiatus, participated in the same run. We expected Nifty to chase the target of the previously created high and that is what precisely happened, Nifty created a new high in April. Our predictive analysis through our unique time theory strongly indicated a major shift in the astro cycles from the last week of April onwards which is why we predicted the end of the Bullish streak and recommended to book profit in the trades.

The last week of April saw the market witness stagnancy and trading in the range. Market participants are anxiously awaiting cues and signals that will point towards the next trend for Nifty. Our time theory analysis suggests that the wait for market participants will be over by the second week of May. A clear trend will be created from the 6th of May onwards, with a negative bias, so they should take trades accordingly.

Market Trend Predictions Through Time Theory

Time is important not Price

In our Yearly Sectorial Report, published in September 2018 for the period of October 2018 to October 2019, we focused on the Primary sector as Bank Nifty. We are proud to report that our predictive analysis has been proven accurate. Bank Nifty has given fantastic returns from 10th of October 2018 from the levels of 24096 to 31000 resulting in a whopping rate of return.

For the short term tenure for early investors, we advise booking some profits at this time level, as probably Nifty will break the upward trend. For the re-entry time levels, we will keep our subscribers updated through our forthcoming Monthly Outlook reports.

TIME THEORY OUTLOOK FOR THE MONTH – MAY 2019

The month of May is extremely critical from the aspect that India, the world's largest democracy is having its elections and the fate of political parties will be sealed for the next 5 years. We do not want to give any indication on the outcome of the elections as with the time theory we only want to focus on the Financial Market trends and sentiments of Market Participants. Our analysis indicates that there will be many more factors that will come into play besides this important event, which will start exerting pressure on the market.

The change in the Astrocycle will create heavy volatility. Although, the astro monthly charts have turned negative, still, in the first week of May, the market will witness a bounce in Nifty levels. The daily charts indicate certain days will be bullish, but every rise will try to get sold off.

TIME THEORY OUTLOOK FOR THE MONTH – MAY 2019

SHUBHA
JAVARIA

From the second week of May, the market will be under more pressure, which will continue until the end of the month. There could be critical developments taking place from the geopolitical aspects. Our weekly reports with day wise predictions will keep you updated for the precise date wise trend. The charts indicate that volatile movements in crude and currency could be important factors that will decide the trends and exert pressure for profit booking in this month.

Event Predictions

The market will be extremely volatile prior to the event i.e. 21st and 22nd May, much more than the actual event day itself.

Expiry

Expiry will not be encouraging and bias will stay negative.
