NIFTY To Continue Its Range-Bound Journey In May 2021

The much-dreaded 2nd wave of the pandemic has engulfed the nation in chaos and uncertainty. With the number of casualties rising, states all over India are trying their best to contain the spread with major cities implementing lockdowns and limiting economic activity and mobility to cover only essential services.

Fears of a halt to economic activity have triggered an estimated Rs 10,905 crore worth of outflow of foreign portfolio money from domestic equities so far in April 2021 and have hit the rupee badly.

NIFTY To Continue Its Range-Bound Journey In May 2021

We wish all our subscribers good health and safety in these difficult times. Please continue to be safe and healthy, stay indoors and follow safety protocols.

April 2021 saw Nifty take a range-bound journey. In April Nifty started with 14798 levels, created the top of 14984, witnessed a low of 14151, and finally closed below 14,700 levels.

Overall, it stayed range-bound through the month, a trend we had forecasted in our previous newsletter. Furthermore, It also made lower lows at particular intervals, exactly as we had indicated in advance based on our Time Theory.

Astro Outlook for the Month - May 2021

Nifty 50 will continue to trade range-bound in the month of May. We suggest buying at lower levels to take advantage of this trend.

As per the Time Theory, the following trends will be seen in May 2021:

Until 04 May: Market will be under pressure and will create a momentary bottom. There are strong indications that markets will witness a phase of multiple trading cycles being active.

04 May - 15 May: Market will try to exert an upward move, however, the gains will be quickly sold off which will still keep the market range bound.

15 May - 25 May: Market will remain under pressure and may not be able to outperform.

Astro Outlook for the Month - May 2021

25 May - 10 June: Nifty Astro cycles suggest that Nifty will resume its upward journey and try to reach the previous top. This rally is going to be short-lived and will extend until the initial week of next month i.e. June 2021. Waiting for a good dip is advisable if you are looking forward to some gains.

26 May - 27 May: It will be a bullish day. The market will witness some short covering on this day.

After the initial struggle in the opening week, markets will give a dip which will prove to be a good buying opportunity for all. The positions can be carried forward till the next month, July 2021. There are indications that markets will bounce back after witnessing a certain pressure.

Expert Recommendation

It is recommended that subscribers should wait for good levels to pick the trades. There could be a short-term upward movement. Take advantage of the buying opportunity and hold trades till expiry or till July 2021 as the momentum will continue to hold up in the initial days of July 2021.
