Financial Market Trend Predictions - Sept 2021

Index Readies Itself for a Robust Market Rally This Month

August 2021 Performance Outlook

August proved to be a phenomenal month with Nifty creating new record highs. Amidst partial uptrends and pauses, the market witnessed some winning streaks as Nifty marched ahead from 16,000 to above 17,000, for the first time ever, after spending nearly two months in consolidation.

The bulls seemed to lead the way amid broad-based buying due to continuation of Fed's dovish policy. The expected release of domestic GDP data, better than expected results season and faster vaccination drive were the main domestic triggers for the positive market trends.

Time theory Astro Outlook for the Month - Sept 2021

History has it that September is the toughest and probably the worst month for the markets. But, this time, markets seem all set to change history.

As per our Time Theory, a change is on the cards. Astro readings indicate that a change in the time cycle of the market will be seen from August 30th onwards.

The bulls are gearing up for a market rally, a rally that is expected to go through a variation of phases. September will witness the start of the final rally for the index and will continue till the end of the month. The rally is going to be fast paced, robust and will take place in two phases.

Time theory Astro Outlook for the Month - Sept 2021

During the first phase the movement is going to be extremely fast paced while in the second phase, there is a possibility that it may touch resistance time and again before making the upward move.

The rally is going to be broad based with all sectors participating well. As per our readings, this time the rise will be less challenging with fewer obstacles in the way for the market to move upwards. Overall, we can look forward to a smooth upward trend.

Although the Market is overbought, and despite it being overvalued, to everyone's surprise, it will move upward and we will have a strong rally beyond expectations.

Expert Recommendation

Given the market trends for September, we advise market participants to stay long and carry the positions till October 2021.
