Major Transitions of planets in store for September 2020. The weakening of Planetary positions will lower down the levels.

August 2020 Performance Outlook

In the month of August, we saw the market head upwards. It created the top of 11,794 on 31st and gave correction on the same day with the closing of 11,387

According to the Time Theory prediction, Gold created the peak in the month of August at 56,191 on August 07th, Silver created the Peak of 77,949 on Aug 07th and then onwards gave its first correction and traded range-bound. This absolutely resonated with our predictions as we advised our subscribers to start booking profit from August as we expect the end of the rally this month.

Time and again, we have proved that our astro predictions using the Time Theory are extremely accurate. We correctly gauge the pulse of the market and foretell the market trends and impact of important events on the investor sentiments with consistent accuracy and precision.

And we are extremely delighted that our subscribers can book profits at the correct moment in these uncertain times too with the help of our predictions.

Time Theory Astro Outlook for September 2020

Until now, the market has moved in a wave and every fall was recovered as well. In the successive trading session, they also made a new high. Although as per the Time Theory, a major chunk of planetary positions have changed and weakened. Hence, it may not work the way it did before but this time there be difficulty in recovering and the levels will go down. We expected Mars to start with its impact from 20th but due to slow transitional changes, the impact started from 31st.

As per Time Theory, the planetary positions have weakened and the cycle has turned weak too. Nifty may bounce and find short covering from the critical support area. Time Theory suggests that the falls will be sharp and the rise will be swift. The top created on the 31st August will be tough to cross as no major planetary strength is left in this month.

A Major transition of planetary positions will take place this month with Mars turning retrograde and Jupiter and Saturn turning into transit. The Sun and Mercury will be crossing Leo and transit to Virgo. These transitions will have a huge impact on the sentiments of the market participants and the sectors pick.

Time Theory Astro Outlook for September 2020

In the Webinar we held in May, we had mentioned that our Nation will make a come back in full swing for economic activities from September 2020 and here we are, back on track with India opening and getting back to normal this month. There have been major unlocks that have been declared recently although now the unlocks on transport and commutation are pending. From 14th September, many announcements will be made which will relax the economic activities and further open up the economy.

This is the time frame where I see the graph of community transmission may get stagnant or gradually fall, as the transition of planets are into positive territory.

India and China tension will be visible on the ground and keep sustaining. We will keep receiving the news but no major consequences will take place.

Expert Recommendations

Dear Subscribers,

Time Theory Suggests you to create short in the initial time of the month which should be covered in the mid of month.

Advisable is to create short after a substantial bounce in the mid of month and cover it at small targets post the half month.
