PRESIDENT TRUMP On INDIAN MARKETS?

Astro Economics - Time Theory - Market Psychology

As per our astro analysis, there are strong indications that market players will be speculative about the impeachment inquiry and its outcome until the 16th of October, 2019. This, in turn, will keep the market under pressure and will not let it perform.

However, post 16th October 2019, there are signs that some critical and crucial news will make headlines and grab the attention of the market players that will trigger a new trend for the market. We expect the news to be positive for the markets and would give market participants an opportunity to cover their losses back. As the picture of the outcome of the allegations and the inquiry become clearer, the fear gripping the market will start releasing gradually and will eventually reduce anxiety amongst market players.

Besides the issue of the impeachment inquiry, there could be other sectors and areas also which could generate some negative geopolitical news, as a result of which market sentiment will remain weak for some time and will continue exerting pressure on the markets.
