BUDGET WEEK ASTRO OVERVIEW

- The Indian market sprinted to a fresh record high almost on daily basis in the run-up to the big event – 'Budget 2018' which is scheduled for February 1, Thursday.
- This big event, Budget 2018, is closely watched by investors and analysts community to strategies their investments and becomes the roadmap for market participants who are planning to put afresh investments into equity markets and for the ones who are already invested either by way of mutual funds or direct equities.
- Financial astrology an unique tool, tracks the market sentiments in advance of market participants and give the future framework which can chaperon the investors and traders to execute trades accordingly.

- At the initial of the week, Monday could be positive day for Nifty and Tuesday market participants will do the profit booking due to which market will give moderate negative closing between the range of -80.
- The day just before the budget presentation that is 31 Jan a pull back will be witnessed which will give good rise in the Nifty in the hopes of a good budget.
- 01 Feb, the budget day will witness a positive trend with high volatility. Market participants will unfold as expected policies only which will lead to the positive closing of the Nifty with usual volatility of budget day. Somehow what I can read in the charts that there will be nothing extraordinary or beyond expectation any factor in budget and on other hand nothing will be at depressing side. Overall it will be a well-balanced budget.
- 02 Feb, the positive trend will resume but moderate gain will be witnessed which will give a very average closing. After 1 pm there will be a trend change where after market will start shedding its gains and squeeze and give weekend note with positive closing.
