STILL MARKETS ARE LEFT TO TASTE BOTTOM

An Astro View

After predicting the one way rise of Nifty in Jan I was very clear with my predictions that market will sharply correct/crash and thus advised all our clients specially traders to shed their positions before 25 Jan. With todays fall market participants are panic and worried. Some of the common queries going through are-

Positions are standing in the markets what should I do at this point of time?

Is this a good time to Invest in equity based mutual funds?

Is this good time to buy stocks in personal ac?

I am having short positions when to cover?

More room left for correction

My studies reveals that we are yet in bearish trend and left more with it. One should not rush to invest afresh in the market. Astrologically still more time is left for bottom creation and reversal to be observed. There will be pull back also but one should not misunderstand as a reversal. Every rise will act as selling opportunity at present time. Bottom fishing could be dangerous at this point of time.

Soon we will update with the market reversal. Till that time trade carefully.
